ATTACKS ON MINCKWITZ

Made By Pupils in the Kansas City High School.

The Kansas City Journal contains the following in regard to an attack on Prof. R. H. Minckwitz, who was for several years connected with the Topeka high school, but who is now a teacher of Latin and Greek in the Kansas City high school:

Three of the most popular members of the high school class which was graduated on last Tuesday night confessed yesterday morning to having been part authors of the pamphlets entitled "Central High School Revelations" which were in circulation on the night of graduation.

They said that they had been instrumental in having the pamphlets published, but were not the writers of the most abusive and scurrilous portions.

The "Revelations" contained some very vicious attacks upon Professor Minckwitz, the instructor in Latin and Greek in the school. While Principal Buchanan was talking to the boys one of them said: "I would give a hundred dollars rather than see Professor Minckwitz." The words were no sooner out of his mouth than Professor Minckwitz stepped into the room. He showed plainly the pain he felt, for all of the young gentlemen had been pupils of his for four years.

Turning to one, he said: "I have tutored you for days and nights, and done my best in school hours and out of them to advance your interests. I thought you were a gentleman. I care nothing of what has been said of me, but I do care for your disgrace." The tears came into his eyes as he spoke, and turning around he stepped out of the room, too overcome to speak further.

THE GEOGRAPHICAL IDEA.

Imaginary Lines Considered in the Choosing of Candidates.

The Sedgwick county delegation to the Republican state convention has had printed for distribution at the convention a map of Kansas, showing the location of the candidates for the state offices.

They are distributed among the congressional districts as follows: First district, two candidates; Second district, six; Third district, five; Fourth district, eight; Fifth district, three; Sixth district, eight; Seventh district, six.

There are ten candidates for auditor and seven for comptroller of state.

The map is also designed to show that the Seventh district is entitled to more than one place on the state ticket and the total votes of the various districts in 1892 is given. That of the Seventh was 66,500, and the Fourth district comes next with something over 48,000.

TREACHEROUS AS EVER

The Gasoline Stove Responsible for a Serious Disaster.

GEORGE M. CHASE AND HIS SON

Horribly Burned About the Face in an Attempt to Extinguish a Gasoline Fire in a Neighbor's House.

George M. Chase, the veteran shoe merchant and his son Fred Chase, were seriously burned this morning about 7 o'clock in their heroic efforts to save from damage by fire the property of their next door neighbors.

The fire which occurred at 7:05 this morning in the two-story brick residence at 917 Topeka avenue, owned by W. R. Martin, and occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Martin and also by Mrs. Julia Summers who occupies two rooms up stairs. The fire started from a gasoline stove in Mrs. Summers' rear room, on which she was heating some water for bathing purposes. Mrs. Summers is in ignorance of how the stove happened to explode, unless it was caused by her turning the flame up too suddenly.

The alarm of fire was turned in from box 35, only half a block away. Mr. Chase and Fred Chase who live at 921 Topeka avenue ran to the house and were the first to arrive. The fire had spread over the floor and the back wall, and with Mr. Chase at one end of a large blanket and Fred Chase at the other end, the two started into the room to try to put it over the stove and if possible smother the flames. Just then something happened. Either the stove upset or the tank burst, nobody is sure which. At any rate both Mr. Chase and his son suddenly found themselves enveloped in flames. Mr. Chase's face and hands were horribly burned. His hair was burned off, his nose and lips were literally cooked and he was otherwise badly burned about the face. There is grave danger that Mr. Chase inhaled some of the fire, for he has been repeatedly attacked with nervous chills since the occurrence.

Fred Chase's injuries are much of the same nature as his father's, but probably a trifle less serious, although his burns are painful in the extreme. He was badly burned about the face and scalp, but only one hand, his right, was burned.

Dr. Reid Alexander is the attending physician and pronounces the injuries of both men most serious, but probably not fatal, unless in the case of Mr. Chase, the internal injuries should prove worse than is expected. Mr. Chase was a young and strong constitution in his favor, and he was able to walk about the house. Neither man was burned about their body and their clothes were not even scorched.

As to the fire, it was put out with some difficulty with the chemical steamer alone. The damage will be about $125 fully covered by insurance. Mr. Martin is a son-in-law of Ex-Councilman John Elliott.

ON LABOR'S WHEEL.

Paine's Celery Compound Now
Better Than a Vacation Later.

"I simply can't stop," says the tired business man and the worn-out mother. "But nervous prostration stares you in the face."

"I dare not think of being sick. My children and babies and husband depend on me every hour in the day," reply those women on the verge of breaking down. "A month's absence would ruin my business," says the hard-worked business man.

When the nerves and organs of the body are soundly nourished and the waste products quickly got rid of a tremendous amount of hard work can be done without injury. It is when the nervous tissues are used up faster than they are repaired that brain, nerves, and vital organs suffer, cry out with neuralgia, rheumatism, heart trouble, nervous dyspepsia, and finally break down.

Paine's celery compound is doing a world of good for such people, whose brain and body are overtaxed, but who may yet be saved from nervous prostration and diseases of the liver, kidneys and stomach by this great strength-giver and blood and nerve invigorator.

The first bottle of Paine's celery compound begins at once to clear the impure blood, to supply material for growth to worn-out nerves and to the million of tiny cells of nervous substance through the brain and spinal column. This marvelous blood and nerve remedy lays the foundation for health deeply and permanently. He is now a member of the city council of Kansas City.

To counteract the effects of protracted bodily and mental strain, Paine's celery compound was first prepared by the eminent Dartmouth professor, Edward E. Phelps, M. D., LL. D. Physicians of the highest standing use and prescribe it to give strength to weak mothers and to supply abundant nutrition to the rapidly growing nerves and tissues of children.
